GO TO GEORGIA TO GET MAN ACCUSED OF "KITING" CHECK

Police Chief Prim Leaves for Atlanta to Arrest Man in Two Year Old Case

Police Chief George T. Prim left Thursday night for Atlanta, Ga., to return William Krull of that city to Appleton to answer a charge of false pretenses in connection with a case that started two years ago.

Krull presented a fraudulent sight draft on a Los Angeles bank for $200 to T. L. Held, manager of the Hotel Appleton in payment of a hotel bill incurred by himself, wife and two children.

When the fraud was discovered Krull had disappeared and all trace of him was lost until a year later Held received a letter from Krull's wife with the allegation that Krull had died. The letter requested the hotel manager to forward a number of pieces of baggage the Krulls had left at the hotel.

Held was suspicious of the letter and placed the matter in the hands of John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney. Mr. Lonsdorf opened correspondence with Atlanta police and received the information that Krull was living in Georgia. Requisition papers for returning Krull to Wisconsin were obtained by Mr. Lonsdorf and at a hearing in Georgia in January they were honored.

At that time Krull offered to make a settlement and no action was taken on the requisition papers by Mr. Lonsdorf. Krull, however, neglected to make the settlement.

A telegram received by Chief Prim early this week from the Solicitor-General of Georgia contained the information that the requisition papers were still in force and Thursday the chief decided to act on them.

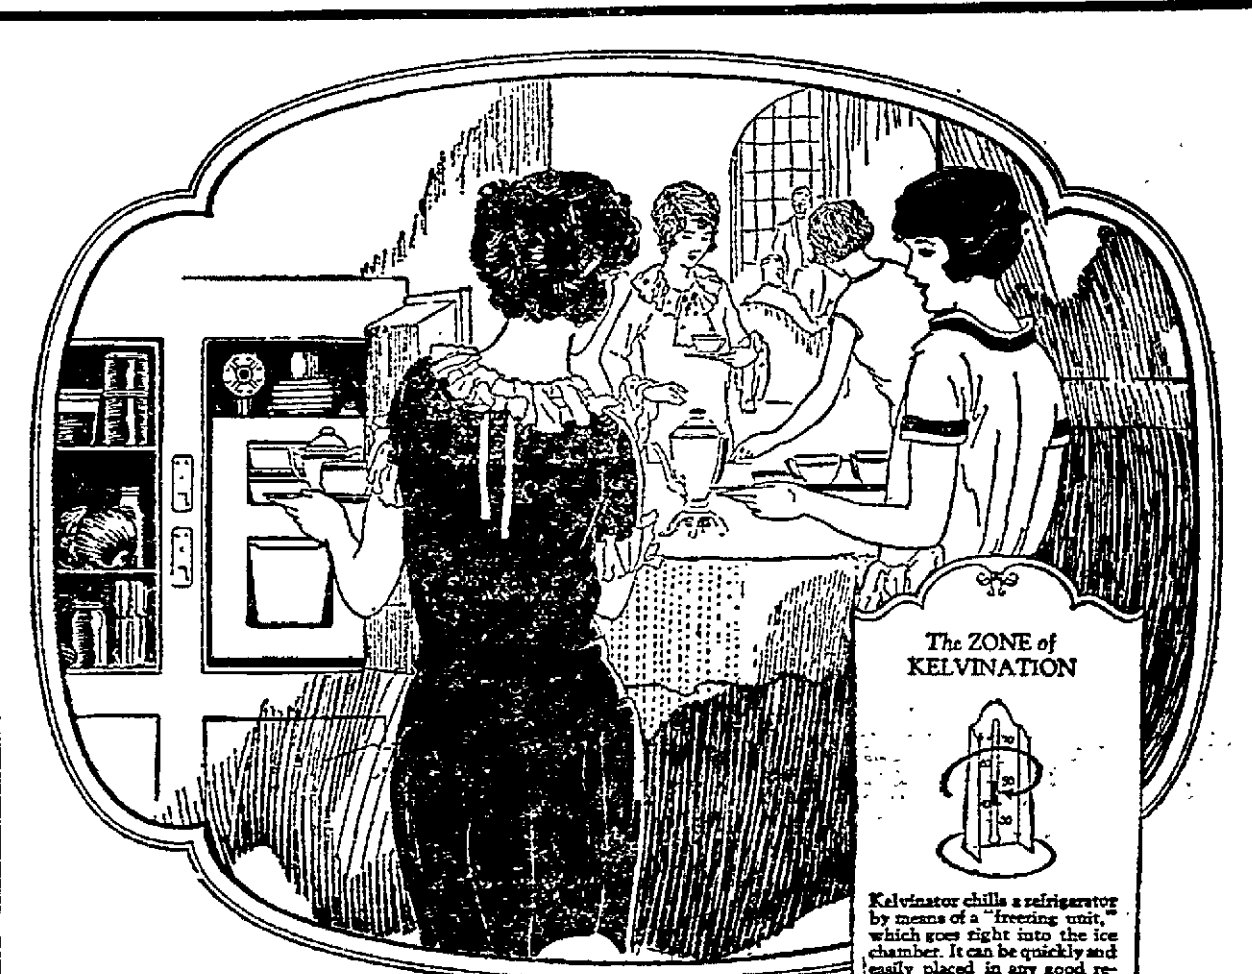

APPLETON MEN LEAVE TONIGHT FOR TOMAHAWK

Five Appleton men and one from Neenah will leave Saturday morning for Tomahawk Lake where they will attend a meeting of the executive board of the Wisconsin department of the American legion Saturday and the formal opening of Camp American Legion, state veterans' rehabilitation camp, at Tomahawk Lake Sunday. Local men who will make the trip are Col. H. L. Plummer and L. Hugo Keller, past state commanders; Marshall C. Graft, commander of the Elkhart district; Erik L. Madison and L. A. Fisher of the Badger Legionnaire staff; Col. F. J. Schneller, commander of the Sixth district, will be the Neenah representative.

Col. Plummer also will attend the banquet and military ball of the United Reserve Officers association of Fond du Lac Friday evening at the Ritz hotel. Mrs. Plummer may accompany him to Tomahawk.

At that time Krull offered to make a settlement and no action was taken on the requisition papers by Mr. Lonsdorf. Krull, however, neglected to make the settlement.

ENOUGH CARS IN STATE TO TAKE WHOLE POPULATION AT ONCE

Uniform Laws All Over State Will Help Make Driving Pleasant

Shelbygan—(AP)—If every motor vehicle registered in this state was capable of carrying five persons the entire population of Wisconsin could be riding at one time. C. N. Maurer, Madison, traffic engineer of the state highway department said Friday at the League of Municipalities convention.

"We do not realize the importance of the automobile to Wisconsin," the highway engineer continued. "Our department has conservatively estimated that the out of state tourist trade in Wisconsin is approximately $100,000,000 a year. This is one-third as large as our largest industry, which is dairy-farming."

"In 1926, Wisconsin with its 662,282 motor vehicles, ranked as the eleventh state with respect to the number of motor vehicles registered with an average of five persons for each car. The average for the United States is 6.1 persons per car. The motor vehicles registration for the United States during the past six years has increased from ten to twenty-two million. The increase in our state for the past year was 11.4 per cent."

"The State Highway Commission has for the last two years given considerable attention to traffic regulation. This is one of the duties of the traffic department and in our studies of highway traffic control, we have come in contact with some of the many problems of traffic control which various cities have to contend with."

"First of all, we must continue with the highway program, and second, we must have uniform traffic regulations uniformly enforced throughout the state. Here are certain observations which have been made that should tend to materially promote the tourist industry in Wisconsin."

Local ordinances should be uniform.
2. Signs should be uniform.
3. Arterial stop signs and automatic traffic regulators should be uniform.
4. If possible, the parking of vehicles should be as consistently uniform as conditions permit.
5. The streets upon which the U. S. and State highways are routed should be removed from the business section.
6. Municipally operated and maintained camp sites should be maintained.
7. The state highway laws should be uniform with those in other states."

ASSEMBLY REFUSES TO RECONSIDER BILL

Measure Involving School Aid Is Definitely Killed

Madison—(AP)—The assembly Thursday refused to take a 30 vote to reconsider the bill by the committee on education revamping the plan for state aid for free high schools.

The bill some time ago, was refused engrossment by vote of the assembly. Assemblyman Hitt had moved that this vote be reconsidered.

Refusal to reconsider is tantamount to killing a bill.

The senate committee on judiciary bill, allowing prior liens by threshers on the grain of farmers who do not pay for their threshing, was ordered to a third reading.

Passage was voted for the bill establishing a state fish hatchery at Ft. Atkinson and it now goes to the senate.

Senator Polakowski's bill for investigation of prison labor by an interim committee was passed and now goes to the governor, the appropriation bills for the superintendent of public instruction, attorney general, library commission, state treasurer, civil service commission, and industrial and railroad commissioners also were passed.

The bill providing that the district board or school board may designate the bank in which school funds may be deposited was ordered engrossed, after being withdrawn from committee for action on the floor.

Classmate Waiting For Ride Promised By "Slim"

Madison—(AP)—Six years ago Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, then plain "Charley," promised one of his friends, Delos Dudley, that the next time they met Delos should have a ride in an airplane piloted by Lindbergh.

It was on the Milwaukee railroad station platform in Madison, "Lindy" was on his way to Lincoln, Neb., to study aviation having just been "advised to withdraw" from the University of Wisconsin by officials. As Dudley, classmate, bid him farewell.

SUBMIT BUILDING CODE TO COUNCIL

Proposed Ordinance Provides for Regulation of Radio in City

A building code prepared by Walter A. Zschachner, former building inspector and his successor John Weiland, was presented to the common council Wednesday night for approval. No action was taken on the code, the council ordering the city clerk to prepare copies for each alderman.

Entitled "An ordinance regulating the construction, alteration, remodeling, removing of buildings, or plumbing, heating, steel structure and sheet and mason work, or any work or structure necessary for private or public buildings or in the nature of a structure to be regulated by a department of building supervision."

Included in the sections is one providing for the establishment of the office of electrical inspector, and another governing the operation and construction of radios in the city limits.

The various sections are headed as follows: Department of Building supervision; building permits and inspection; board of building appeals; unsafe buildings; moving of buildings; protection of heating apparatus; walls, floor, materials; electrical work permits and inspection; board of electrical examiners; money paid to city treasurer; radio.

the new famous aviator promised that when they met again he would take him for an airplane ride.

When Col. Lindbergh steps from his plane soon at Taupert Field, St. Louis, he will again meet his friend of college days, for the first time in six years. Although the two have carried on correspondence regularly, they have not seen each other since "Lindy" set out.

Dudley will be the reception committee when the trans-Atlantic flyer returns to home port. And he anticipates a ride in the "Spirit of St. Louis" as the fulfillment of a six-year-old promise.

During college days, the two were close companions and studied aviation journals with interest while not busy with school work.

A PERMANENT TAX RESEARCH BOARD
The senate has engrossed a bill by Senator Casperson which would create a permanent citizens tax research board to engage in a continuous study of taxation problems and report recommendations every two years to the governor and the legislature. There would be six members, one from the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, one from the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association, one from the Wisconsin Bankers' association, one practical farmer, a member of the college of agriculture, and a member of the department of agricultural economics of the university. We think this bill should be passed and we are sure it will have the approval of Governor Zimmerman. It represents the best approach to a sound and equitable solution of tax questions that can be devised. It is evident that the politicians and the factions into which the legislature is divided cannot agree upon revision of the present tax laws or upon a definite tax policy. All efforts to settle upon even minor changes in the existing laws have been futile.

The interim legislative committee which made an investigation of taxation last year submitted some excellent recommendations, both with reference to tax revision and economy and budgeting of the state's finances, but it was essentially a political and even partisan body, and its suggestions in a general way were open to that criticism regardless of their merits. Strong differences exist between the various political schools of Wisconsin but we think they are more theoretical than real. While these differences cannot be entirely reconciled, we think they can be modified through mutual concessions. Experience has proved that we do not get anywhere toward fair and permanent results by partisan and extreme tax legislation. It inevitably leads to bitterness, and to reprisals when the other side gets into power, and it is disturbing to business and to investors.

Wisconsin, to realize the most for its people through development, must follow a policy of live and let live, as applied to each and every group. A frank, disinterested and non-partisan investigation of taxation by competent and unprejudiced authorities could and should lead to a satisfactory understanding all around. It should serve to take taxation out of politics, where it is always manhandled. Certainly in Wisconsin there is no unanimity of opinion on any one phase of taxation. We are hopelessly at odds over the whole subject and we will continue to be so long as we leave it in politics.

Since nothing can be done at this session of the legislature toward a constructive revision of the tax laws, the bill offered by Senator Casperson obviously should be enacted. We can afford to go slow in solving the problem and we can continue a little longer to navigate in the present unruly tax stream, provided we secure right results in the end—results that will be generally accepted, at least in principle, as a permanent solution of the question. This, it is conceivable, the Casperson measure will lead to. If it will not we do not know how it is to be reached. At any rate it is worth the trying.

SUPREME COURT JAM
Chief Justice Taft, reviewing the work of the supreme court of the United States, is confident that if the progress made during the term just closed can be maintained for two years, the cases in arrears will be wiped out and the court will catch up with its work by 1929.
We hope that Chief Justice Taft is right. Certainly it would be a relief to have one court in the country catch up with its work even at that late date. For a prize waste of time our courts take all the honors. It is not alone the supreme court, but every court. Cases drag along, the calendars jam up, justice is delayed interminably, the contestants are dissatisfied and untold waste of time and effort result from the slow court procedure.

AMERICAN IDEALS STILL HIGH

On his way to the summer White house President Coolidge was everywhere greeted by applauding crowds. An immense audience welcomed him at Wicker Memorial Park, Lake County, Indiana, and although press dispatches say it was not demonstrative it nevertheless evinced a friendly interest in the president. The occasion was not one in itself to evoke great enthusiasm. Rather, it was a serious occasion, and the theme of Mr. Coolidge's address was one calculated to appeal to sober thought rather than to the emotions.

It was the president's contention that "amid all of her prosperity, America has not forgotten her ideals." He cited specific incidents to prove this, including the country's response to distress calls in time of disaster, the popular acclaim of Lindbergh for the qualities of greatness he has displayed, and the raising and dedication of memorials and monuments to those who have done service to their fellowmen. The speaker held that these and many other incidents "disclose the true values of our national character." He is disturbed but not alarmed by symptoms of unrest and discontent, by the crime wave of recent years and the growing disrespect for law and by the apparent and excessive commercializing of everything. In spite of it all, he holds that we as a people "are lavish in our admiration of realities."

We think the president is right. We have gone quite far afield in our quest for excitements and a kick to life and to acquire wealth. We have become a nation of lawbreakers in defiance of personal liberty and in quest of pleasure. The home as we used to know it thirty or forty years ago is pretty well shot. Youth is bored and many of our educational as well as social tendencies are unquestionably at variance with reality. We are accused of religious retrogression and spiritual decay. On the surface all of these indictments appear to be valid, but we think, as does the president, that they are superficial and do not reach the heart and substance of American life. If they did, the end of this nation would not be far off. The president finds many reactions which convince him that we are sound at the core and that we have not in the background departed from the ideals upon which this nation was founded and evolved. We may go astray and we may yield to various weaknesses, for after all we are human. But the real question is, will we meet in the right way the great tests that determine our true character and the road we shall travel? Will our crucial decisions be sound? In spite of all that may argue to the contrary, we would with President Coolidge give an affirmative answer.

OLD MASTERS

All loved and lovely women dear to rhyme:
The Casperson, Helen and their families,
Burn like tall candles through forgotten time.
Lighting the Past's dim arras with their names.
Around their faces was the eager dark
Where all other lights are sunken now.
Yet, casting back, the seeker still may mark
A flame of hair, a bright immortal brow.
Surely, where they have passed, one after one,
Wearing their radiance to the darkened room—
Surely, newcomers to Oblivion
May still descry in that all-quenching gloom
Rare faces lovely, lifted and alight.
Like tapers burning through the windy night.

TUBERCULOSIS TODAY

Fully one-half of the patients in a great sanatorium for tuberculosis can give no indication as to the source of their infection, and the remainder are more or less hazy about it.

It was strongly contended years ago, notably by German physicians and medical research students, that pulmonary tuberculosis came from infection with tubercle bacilli in infancy or early childhood, and chiefly from bovine tuberculosis which was carried to the infant or child thus infected through the milk of a cow or a goat. The tubercle bacilli in a latent or smoldering state in the lymph nodes ("glands") deep in the abdomen or in the neck, until youth or early adult life, and then the tubercle bacilli somehow reached the lungs and set up active tuberculosis there. There came a number of excellent food physicians and research students among them many Americans who took issue with the German view and some of these even denied that bovine tuberculosis could occur in man. The present consensus, it seems, is that a sufficient amount of tuberculosis, at least of the bones and glands, in children and young adults, is of bovine origin and type, to warrant the most rigorous campaign to stamp tuberculosis out of the dairy herds of this country, and also the most careful pasteurization of all milk from animals that have not been tuberculin tested.

Authorities on the subject seem loath to express their views, if they have any, on the question of the transmutation of bovine tuberculosis into pulmonary tuberculosis of man. This carries the bovine bacilli into the lymph nodes (thrombosis, the tonsils especially) and there they leave them. We may conjecture whether the germs change after countless generations into tubercle bacilli of the type that produces pulmonary tuberculosis.

The high school age period is the time when latent tuberculosis becomes manifest in most cases. The weight in a youth of this age is strikingly suggestive of tuberculosis. If careful and repeated physical examination gives no definite information, the boy or girl should receive the skin tuberculin test, and if this gives a positive reaction, then X-ray pictures of the lungs are in order.

Often active tuberculosis in this early on incipient stage causes no loss of weight and so little cough that the lungs are not even suspected. A high school boy or girl developing pulmonary tuberculosis may nevertheless be an athletic star. So you see it will never do to dismiss the matter with the laughing remark that the youngster is the very picture of health. Artists will find many fine models in the tuberculosis sanitarium if they are looking for pictures of health.

Neither rosy cheeks nor strength nor bright eyes spell health.
Dr. Lawrence Brown, whose "Rules for Recovery From Tuberculosis" is a classic, says: "The time to attack adult pulmonary tuberculosis is from puberty to the twentieth year. The majority of those who are cured of adult pulmonary tuberculosis after the twentieth year, have definite disfiguring signs of it in the second decade (from age 10 to age 20)."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

I have wanted for some time to write and thank you for your oft repeated saying there is no such thing as a free lunch. I am Science and have always said same, and if more of you I.D.'s would come right out and say just what we have always claimed. . . . Should be glad if you would prescribe something for misplaced cartilage in right ear but do not wish to take medicine. (D. D. J.)
Answer—I am Science. Glad to meet you. Science. I know of no medicine which would replace a misplaced cartilage in your ear—in fact I can't imagine how in tarantula you got the cartilage out of place. About the "colds," all I say is that when anybody purports to have a "cold" everybody else who comes within range may while away the incubation period (time from moment of exposure to beginning of illness) guessing whether it is going to be coryza, diphtheria, quinsy, meningitis, measles, pneumonia, or what not.

An attempted kidnapping or the operation of a white slave in Appleton became known that afternoon when Katherine Konrath, Spencer-st., a student at St. Joseph school was called from her class room and informed by a stranger man that she was being searched for by two dozen detectives and that without hesitation she must accompany him to Cincinnati, Ohio, where $5,000 awaited her. She was told by the stranger, that the woman whom she believed to be her mother, was in reality, not her mother, but a woman who had stolen her and taken her from the east to Wisconsin.

Mrs. Peter L. Schmeider of Neenah, entertained a company of friends at cards at her home the previous afternoon. Mrs. William Keller won the prize.

Marriage licenses were issued that morning to R. P. Huss and Adeline Schabe of Appleton, R. Van Deney and Mary Sinkles, both of Little Chute; Herbert O. Knox of Kaukauna and Ellen Tubbs of Seymour; C. Conrad E. Storm of Kaukauna and Alphonse Beckstrom of Kaukauna.

A Lecture On Christian Science

MAN'S SPIRITUAL NATURE AS REVEALED BY CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

By Miss Margaret Murray Glenn, C. S. B. of Boston, Massachusetts

The question uppermost in the thought of many to-day is, What is man? The attention given by the general public to the subject of the human mind, as well as the efforts of the individual to find the reason for his being and the purpose of his life evidence the deep interest felt in this question. Natural science explains man as a wholly material creation; medicine treats him as a material body, with a mentality resident in the brain; theology believes him to be material and spiritual. The natural scientist is correct in believing that there must be a science to explain man's nature, but this science is the Science of Spirit, not of matter. The theologian is correct in maintaining that God created man in His image, but this image, in order to be an image of God, must be wholly spiritual, for God is Spirit, not flesh.

The Science of Christianity does not deprive the natural scientist of science, but gives him a higher concept of it. Neither does it rob the religionist of his belief that man is God's image, but it reveals man in his perfect, immortal thought. The Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, writes: "Nature reflects man and art pencils him, but it remains for Science to reveal man to man" (The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany, p. 124).

The Psalmist indicated man's purely spiritual nature when he said, "What is man, that thou art mindful of him?"

MAN'S SUBSTANCE
What is man's substance, that God is mindful of it? If the answer of the physical sciences are correct then we are, of all creatures, most miserable, for according to their analyses a mortal man consists of matter, which is subject to discord, decay, and disintegration. Can God really be mindful of a substance that is discordant, decadent, destructible, and can this unsubstantial, so-called substance constitute man, who is God's most noble creation? Assuredly not, and the Science of man, therefore, must be the science of spirit, not of matter, reveals man's substance as consisting of spiritual ideas, which are as immutable as their source, the one divine and infinite Spirit, God. Man's substance cannot be perceived through a microscope, for it is spiritual and mental. All there is of man is his mind, and his mind is his thinking. Remove a person's thinking and there is no longer human evidence of his existence.

Christian Science teaches that the spirit of love, joy, strength, harmony, honesty, and intelligence, or to put it differently, the divine qualities that you and I manifest, constitute our individuality, or our substance. One often uses the expression, There is not much substance to what he says, or, He is a substantial sort of person, meaning not that he has a lot of material, but that his thinking is intelligent, honest, and loving. Let us see why these qualities are substantial. Honesty cannot be burned, drowned, nor destroyed by an accident, and this is true of every other quality or attribute of God, such as harmony, health, and love. These qualities do not exist in matter, for a substance which is subject to discord, decay, and disintegration is incapable of producing its opposite, namely, substantial, immutable, harmonious ideas. Their origin is in the divine Mind. This Mind is forever conscious, for did it have a moment's unconsciousness during that moment it would not be Mind. This Mind, being one, can think of nothing unlike itself nor outside of itself, for it is infinite, and there is none else, as the Bible says, Mind's thoughts or ideas about itself constitute man, the only man of whom God is mindful. If the true man of God's creating were the man of dust, described in the second chapter of Genesis, or the man descended from monkeys, described by evolution, think of what extremely ungodlike and unspiritual things God would be mindful. And it would follow that the more we know of God the more we would have to know of such material beliefs as dust, monkeys, and so forth. These are all well in their place, but surely no one believes them to be immortal, eternal facts. These theories pertain only to mortality, and as mortality is laid off these views will be laid off with the mortal. As Paul says, "this mortal must put on immortality." The material theory of evolution is probably as logical as anything can be about the descent of mortal man, but its study cannot, prove as uplifting, spiritualizing, health-giving, nor purifying as the study of the perfect man, for this study requires that thought ascend to the real man's origin, to the most high God. A material evolution but bears out the revelation of Christian Science, namely, that God's idea, man, and a mortal's concept of man are two diametrically opposite things. Only one of these concepts can actually be man. In Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, Mrs. Eddy makes this clear contrast between the material of material evolution and the man of God's creating revealed by Christian Science. She says (p. 189): "The human mortal mind, by an inevitable perversion, makes all things start from the lowest instead of from the highest, mortal thought. The material verse is the case with all the formations of the immortal divine Mind. They proceed from the divine source; and so, in tracing them, we constantly ascend in infinite being."

Even the most learned men do not claim to understand perfectly the origin of a mortal, his substance and his nature. This mystery with regard to mortal life has led some to consider it a marvelous creation, and natural scientists, physicians, and others have continued to grope from one theory to another in the hope of finding the proper solution to the enigma of mortal existence, an existence which can no more be explained than can the statement that two times two are five. Just as this statement is a false concept of a mathematical truth, so mortal existence is a false concept of life. Neither can be explained, for they are mistaken, and are therefore unscientific. Mystery can afford no satisfaction. Geography, for example, dispels the mystery with regard to the shape of the earth, its rotations and revolutions, which seem to the physical senses the opposite to that which they really are. In accepting these correct explanations we have to deny the physical sense testimony which claims that we see a flat earth, and the sun going around it. Surely, if we are willing to deny this evidence in order to accept the correct statements with regard to the earth, we cannot hesitate to deny the physical sense testimony with regard to man, and to see him with our intelligence instead of with our material eyes, particularly as this scientific seeing restores to us our health, happiness, and purity. Christian Science does not remove the veil from man and man, and it shows that we must understand, know, and love the man of whom God is mindful.

If we are not to know God and man, in other words, if we are not to have a science revealing the truth about them, to the earth, we cannot but, as Jesus came, then not to mystify us but that we might have a more abundant knowledge of God and man, and that we might know God and man as he knew them. This true knowledge he declared to be life eternal.

In order to judge others correctly we must have some comprehension of their motives. Mrs. Eddy gives as her life-motive the following (Retrospection and Introspection, p. 30): "The motive of my earliest labors has never changed. It was to relieve the

EFFECTUAL PRAYER

Solomon's counsel to acknowledge God in all our ways is disregarded when we do not acknowledge Him as the only Physician who healeth all our diseases. The Lord's Prayer expresses comprehensively the fact that God is available for every human need. This prayer is the daily prayer in the Manual of The Mother Church are the only two formulated prayers used by Christian Scientists. To them the Lord's Prayer is not a petition to God to be our Father but an acknowledgment of the fact that He is our Father, that His kingdom is everywhere, even where disease seems to prevail, that His good and loving will is the only will, that He supplies, forgives, and delivers from sin, disease, and death. John in his first epistle explains prayer in this manner when he says, "If we know that he hear us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we desired of him." All of you here know the Lord's Prayer, so test sometime, if you will, its healing and saving power by affirming its statements instead of pleading with God to make them come to pass.

Lord's Prayer denies with its opening words, "Our Father, who art in heaven," that man is evolved from dust or from atoms, which theory subjects mortals to the temporality, disease, and sin to which matter is subject. Had Moses, Daniel, or the other prophets believed that this dusty, atomic creation was man they would not have been able to overcome the animality, limitation, disease, and death inherent in matter. Jesus entirely disproved this theory of life in matter and revealed to us the knowledge of the Son of God, of the perfect spiritual man, or Christ.

PROPER CITY BOND HAS LOWEST COST, TRAXLER ADVISES

Tells Municipal Leaders How to Determine Policy of Meeting Expenses

Sheboygan — (AP) — Describing the proper municipal bond policy, Henry Traxler, Janesville city manager, told representatives at the annual meeting of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, that such a policy is one in which as little interest as possible is paid out by the city in conducting its business.

The problem in municipal financing, he said, is whether a bond policy for capital expenditures or a "cash as you go" policy is best. "It would be foolish for anyone to try to lay down a hard and fast rule to follow and to say that a municipality should go on either one basis or the other."

"In order to arrive at a definite policy of procedure, the logical thing is to lay down the reason for that policy. In municipal financing, the reason for any set policy would be to try to obtain for the taxpayer the most for his money; not retard the improvement of a community and not postpone improvements that absolutely necessary. In this connection, we should also consider the desirability of trying to maintain, as near as possible, a uniform tax rate. In other words, it is good business to operate, if possible, with a uniform tax rate that does not fluctuate up and down but rather stays on an even keel. This can be done."

"In order to judge what the business policy of financing should be, I have divided our cities into four classes."

(1) The small city that is practically standing still or growing at a moderate rate but nevertheless requiring certain capital expenditures, not yearly perhaps, to keep up with the trend of modern times.

(2) Those cities under 75,000 that are growing and expanding rapidly requiring many new improvements and additions yearly.

(3) Those cities between 30,000 and 100,000 that are practically standing still.

(4) Those big cities over 100,000 that are having a normal and healthy growth year after year.

"Taking up the four classifications: in the first case the small city that is practically at a stand-still, I would lay down absolutely the policy of cash as you go. Cities of this class should year after year, place in their budget not exceeding two and one-half dollars per thousand valuation as a sinking fund against future capital outlays. The interest from this surplus, properly invested, should be used against the tax rate so that the taxpayer can be given the benefit of the interest derived from the capital which has not been spent."

"In class 2, those cities under 75,000 that are growing rapidly and expanding, I would say a combination of a judicial cash and bond policy is best suited. In other words, if a large amount is needed at once for a new school or some other capital improvement of that sort, I would say issue bonds for the same."

"In case number 3 covering those cities between 30,000 and 100,000 that are practically standing still, I would advise the building up of a surplus as in the case of the smaller cities in the same position and then stay on a cash basis after all outstanding obligations have been discharged. This would mean placing in the tax roll yearly an amount equal to the maximum that could be levied for the payment of the principal only, under their constitutional limit."

"In case number 4 are the larger cities that are growing normally year after year. I would say that, in most cases, they are usually skating right on the edge of their constitutional limit. For this reason, bonds can only be issued as fast as they are retired. To create a surplus under these conditions and to place into the tax roll sufficient levy to amortize this debt over a period of years, would mean considerable increase in tax rate over, perhaps, competing cities and would be of special benefit to the taxpayer. However, a scheme of amortization such as Milwaukee has worked out, whereby the funds are indirectly obtained will eventually result in that

CITY ATTORNEY WILL COLLECT BACK TAXES

The list of delinquent taxpayers on personal property this week was turned over to A. C. Bosser, city attorney, for collection by Fred M. Bachman, city treasurer. The city attorney probably will give the delinquents one more warning. Failure to pay the tax after that time will result in suits against the non-payers. Less than $1,500 out of a taxroll of $1,212,000 remains to be collected, according to Mr. Bachman. Only 39 persons have failed to pay. The largest delinquent tax is $321.30 and the smallest is 75 cents. Five persons still owe 75 cents. The majority of taxes remaining to be collected amount to only a few dollars. There is one delinquent tax of $201.95, one of $257.65, and one of $137.70 and one of $27.91. All the rest are small amounts.

Has Yours Passed the Mark?

FIFTEEN thousand miles? Twenty thousand? Twenty-five?

Somewhere along the line, your car — every car — passes the mark where good gasoline takes on a double importance.

Important enough before that mark — but doubly so once it is passed!

It is the age mark — where motor-wear has definitely begun to make itself felt. Where mileage begins noticeably to slip. Where the old pep, slide-away and power have begun to fade after months of faithful service.

Then and there, from that point onward

Wadhams 370 True Gasoline

passes beyond all consideration in its luxury aspect and steps into the status of a virtual necessity.

A necessity if you are to forestall a still sharper pitch down the curve of decline . . . a necessity if you are to retain the nearest approach to the performance of earlier days . . . a necessity if you care a rap for the actual cash cost of each individual mile . . . a necessity if you look forward to realizing the highest valuation at turn-in time.

In the height of summer, as in the dead of winter, it pays — and doubly pays for the car that has gone beyond the mark.

AND THE BEST PART OF IT IS THIS: NOW, WITH 370 COSTING NO MORE than common grades of "high", not a single reason can remain for denying your motor its acknowledged superiority.

"Phil Schultz is dead then?" Bob asked, interestedly. "Are you hearing this, Faith?" he called out.

"Every word of it," the girl sang out exultingly. "And I have a marvelous memory for conversation."

"Sure, old Phil, the real beggar, is dead," the taxi driver granted.

"Hutch run over him in his car one night and picked him up and took him home. Didn't let on to the police that he'd banged the old guy up. He nursed the old man till Phil croaked, and had him buried that night. Nobody could tell he was dead, the old man dying, and by that time Hutch had got out to this scheme to take Phil's place. "Oh, Faith?" Bob called. "Stop at the first drug store, get out and phone to Churchill. He'll probably be at his home by now. Try his office if you can't find him. Tell him we need the drug store to join us here. I've got to confer with him before I go any further with this. If he can't be located at once, get the district attorney."

CAPTURE YOUTH AFTER BREAK FROM WORKHOUSE

Less than an hour after he had escaped from the workhouse in Waukegan, Arthur LaFond, Appleton, serving a sentence of 30 days for resisting an officer, was captured at Ripon last Wednesday by Police Chief Allen. He was turned over to Sheriff Plummer of Waukegan and returned to the workhouse the same day.

Recognized by a motorist who had given LaFond a ride to Ripon, the former reported the matter to the police. LaFond made a break for liberty after he had been taken in custody by the Ripon police, but three shots induced him to halt in his tracks. It was reported by Sheriff Plummer.

LaFond was sentenced June 8 in Oshkosh for resisting an officer. He was an occupant of an automobile which was stopped several weeks ago by Motorcycle Officer Stulp for speeding.

Companion Is Arrested While Trying to Persuade Boy to Return Machine

The case against William Faas, 20, 518 N. State, charged with operating a motorcycle without the owner's consent was dismissed on payment of costs by Justice John P. Hume at Chilton on Thursday.

Faas was arrested early Thursday morning in Appleton on information that he had stolen a car in Stockbridge. In the car with him at the time of his arrest was Alex Kielgas, 331 E. Pacific.

At the trial it was brought out that Faas was under the influence of liquor at the time he took the alleged automobile that belonged to William Janty of Stockbridge. The machine in question was a Chevrolet coupe and Faas owns a car of the same make and model.

Faas' defense was that he made a mistake in the identity of the machine and drove it to Appleton. Here he met Kielgas and it was brought out in the testimony that at the time the two were arrested Kielgas was attempting to persuade Faas to return the car to Stockbridge.

No charges were placed against Kielgas. Justice Hume in delivering judgment forbade Faas to drive his own machine for four months unless he has the consent of his mother. Violation of this order, the justice said, would result in Faas' arrest for contempt of court.

Judge Awards $350 For Contract Breach

Plaintiff Says Defendant Failed to Carry Out Agreement

Judgment for $350 in an action for breach of contract was awarded William Richter against Herman Winters by Judge Theodore Berg in the upper branch of Municipal court, Friday morning.

The action was based on an agreement entered between the two on July 26, 1924 whereby the defendant agreed to level, fill and otherwise prepare a tract of land bordering Lake Waukegan for a consideration of $300.

According to the testimony of the plaintiff, Winters failed to execute any part of the contract and the plaintiff said it was necessary for him to engage other persons to do the work.

He did this with the resultant cost of $650 he testified.

He based his claim for damages on the difference between the consideration named in his contract with Winters and that which the work cost him and Judge Berg awarded judgment accordingly.

A PARENTS' DECALOGUE

10 Commandments of Child Training Are Vital "Thou Shalt Not's"

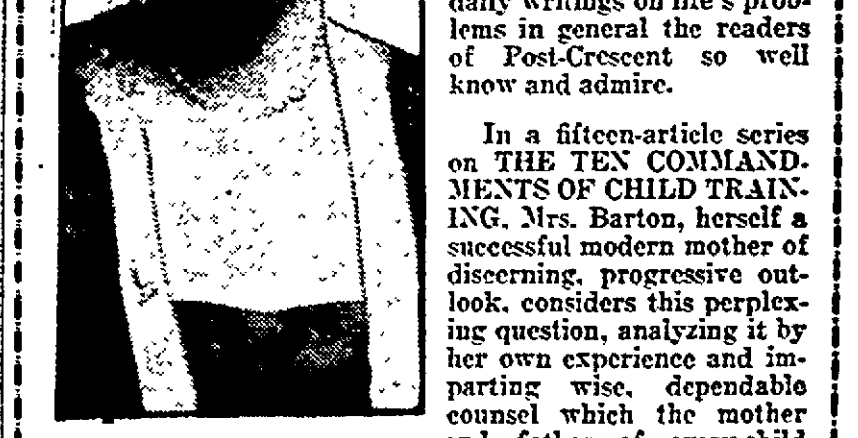

Nothing so faithfully reflects a child's parents than its behavior. Admirable conduct is a credit to its domestic environment; if it misconducts itself, the parents should and do suffer in the estimation of others.

Yet the rearing of children is one of life's most difficult problems for it may be thoroughly mastered only by means of experience — and from experience, as every reader of Post-Crescent knows, come many hard knocks.

Sound advice from the experienced is one guiding help in shouldering parenthood's great responsibility. And from whom could more valuable counsel come than Olive Roberts Barton, whose daily writings on life's problems in general the readers of Post-Crescent so well know and admire.

In a fifteen-article series on THE TEN COMMANDMENTS OF CHILD TRAINING, Mrs. Barton, herself a successful modern mother of discerning, progressive outlook, considers this perplexing question, analyzing it by her own experience and imparting wise, dependable counsel which the mother and father of every child will find invaluable.

And because of that no adult reader of the Post-Crescent can afford to miss it. Beginning exclusively in Post-Crescent—daily—today.

GOVERNOR VETOES 3 MORE MEASURES FROM LEGISLATURE

Assembly Sustains Three Vetoes and Listens to Three More

Madison — (P) — In its session of Thursday morning the assembly sustained the governor in vetoes of three bills and then listened to another governor's message vetoing three more assembly measures.

The lower house refused to override the executive disapproval of the bill by Assemblyman Huber allowing claims of three persons for services and expenses in defending themselves in a state suit in the Jackson bank case. The Prescott bill, closing the season for all hunting in Milwaukee, also disapproved by the governor because he said it would prevent killing of rats, crows and other pests, was allowed to die by the assembly. The third measure was the Stank bill removing the requirement that clerks post announcements of applications for marriage licenses. The governor maintained that there were not enough restrictions on obtaining a marriage license without removing that one.

WANTS "FIRING" POWER
On the bill making it impossible for a governor to remove other state officials except for cause, instead of at his pleasure as under the present law, the governor said that the present law has a precedent of 25 years on the statute books and that if the governor could not remove officers at his pleasure "administration of departments by the responsible heads would be at the mercy of disloyal and inefficient subordinates. He said further:

"The Governor takes an oath of office to enforce the Constitution and the laws of the state; thereby, he is made responsible for the administration of the laws by the departments of the State, and especially so as to such departments whose heads he himself appoints. What power remains to compel cooperation from the subordination of such departments, if every time the executive acts he invites a law suit to determine whether his idea that cause for removal exists is right, or that of the subordinate that no cause exists is right?"

Governor Zimmerman declared in returning the bank appeals bill to the assembly that it would make appeals from decisions of the banking depart-

FINNEGAN RETURNS TO WORK AS FIRE MARSHAL

Madison — (P) — During the two day's conference of Deputy State Fire Marshals at the Insurance Commission Thursday and Friday, two deputies will be sworn into office, Milton A. Freedy, insurance commissioner announced this afternoon.

Scott A. McLean, Superior, Captain of the Headquarters Battery 120th Field Artillery, will probably be located at Superior, Mr. Freedy said.

William E. Finnegan, who has spent 14 years in the state fire marshal's office is again with the department and will be located at Milwaukee.

ment on establishment of banks too cumbersome and expensive.

The governor said the present law provides simple economical, prompt and efficient means of obtaining an adequate review of the rights of the interested parties.

The executive's third veto was a bill by which all over $2,500,000 of the inheritance taxes in a year would be on to the school fund. He declared that in the past four years the average has been below $2,500,000 and asked the legislature how the balance of tax money's could be obtained if in the "fat" years the excess was given to the school fund leaving the "lean" income years with a deficit in the inheritance tax receipts.

STAGE And SCREEN

"FASHIONS FOR WOMEN"

A motion picture made by women! "Fashions For Women" the Paramount photoplay which is showing at Fischers Appleton Theatre today and Saturday has the distinction of being one of the few productions in the screen's history to be produced almost entirely by women.

The film not only marks Esther Ralston's first starring vehicle, but it lays claim to being one of the small group of pictures directed by a feminine hand or voice. It was filmed under the supervision of Dorothy Arzner, the second woman ever to be appointed a motion picture director.

While much of the production is woven around a lavish fashion show, the picture cannot be said to lack masculine appeal. The story, one of business, contains a rare quality of humor too often lacking in comedy productions.

Supporting Miss Ralston are Einar Hanson, handsome leading man and Raymond Hatton, Paramount comedian who will be remembered as the dumb doughboy and equally dumb go in "Behind the Front" and "We're in the Navy Now."

This is a story of the Texas Rangers and of their most daring member, known as the Falcon and played by Mix. Action, suspense, thrills and furious riding, some of it up cliffs that seem impossible for a horse. Humor too, and a love story that is very intriguing help make this picture the fine entertainment that it is. Marjorie Daw has the leading feminine role and a cast of merit all other roles of importance.

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

by Anne Austin

THIS HAS HAPPENED

From his big department store, T. Q. CURTIS chose three girls to come into his home as his wards for one year, because he wanted to help them further. HILLY WELLS, anxious to be a concert violinist, is the only one of the three that is sincere. The others, NYDIA LOMAX and WINNIE SHULTON—like to enjoy the old man's generosity.

Billy, befriended with DAL ROMAN, nephew of MRS. MEADOWS, the hostess, unknown to T. Q., the girls learn he intends to adopt one of them as his daughter when the year is up. Winnie and Nydia turn the house into a place of intrigue. Mrs. Meadows, Dal, in spite of his raggedness to Billy is "playing" Winnie, too, and EDDIE BANNING, Nydia's former sweetheart, are strangely implicated in the intrigues.

One night, Nydia, who is ill, asks Billy to get her a book from the library. While there, Billy breaks a strand of beads and the butler, SAWYERS, finds her sleeping before the safe. He misinterprets her actions. That night, she meets Dal Roman in the garden, and as she steals back toward the house, she sees Eddie Banning creeping from Nydia's window. The next morning when it is found that T. Q.'s safe has been robbed, T. Q. tells Billy the butler places suspicion on her. Terrified, Billy decides to tell CLAY, son of the benefactor, what she dares not tell his father—that she suspects Nydia and Eddie. Clay has disinherited himself and is living at the Wells home in a poor part of town, working by day in a factory and writing music at night. Clay, who loves Billy, vows to help her and in a few days brings Eddie to T. Q.'s library where T. Q., Nydia and Billy face him. He believes Nydia has double-crossed him. "A fine wife you are," he snarls at Nydia as she faints.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER LII

"Yeah, my wife?" Eddie Banning snarled. "We got married after that party that this meddling old bird threw for his flock of pets, nearly a year ago. The next day when Curtis came across with that fool offer of his to give these girls a home for a year, she soft-soaped me into keeping my mouth shut about us being married the night before. 'N' then she goes and double-crosses me after she helps me take the old guy for a cleaning."

T. Q. Curtis passed a bewildered hand over his eyes, then he turned to where Billy was trying to make the unconscious girl comfortable.

"Open the bottom drawer of my desk, Billy. You'll find a flask there and a glass," T. Q. commanded gruffly.

Clay stood guard over the snarling, cursing chauffeur while Nydia was lifted in T. Q.'s arms and placed on the leather-upholstered sofa. Nydia lay for a moment with eyes closed, then began to weep.

"Tell me about it, Nydia," T. Q. said gently, stroking her hand.

"He made me do it," Nydia sobbed.

ed by Clay, and took an uncertain step toward T. Q. Curtis. "But I—I guess I'll take Nydia out of this town. Mr. Curtis, I think we'll have a better chance somewhere else." He turned uncertainly toward his wife. "Could you—would you like to leave today, honey?"

An hour later Nydia Lomax Banning left the Curtis home forever. She did not bid T. Q. goodbye, for Sawyer, who had undoubtedly listened at the keyhole, told her that the millionaire was closeted in the library with his son. There was no one but Billy to fellow Nydia and Eddie Banning to the waiting taxi.

"Goodby, Billy," Nydia choked, flinging her arms about the small, sturdy figure. "I've hated myself for being so mean to you. I—I started to tell you all about what we've been trying to do this last year—you know—but I—I didn't want to get you in trouble. I've made enough trouble for you already, and I—I'm sorry. I hope you win," she whispered.

What passed between father and son in that hour alone in the library was never known to Billy, but when she saw Clay's face as he emerged from the room into the hall she knew that, if T. Q. had pleaded with him to come home, he had resisted that plea. His pale young face, stronger and sterner and far older than it had been a year ago, was marked by the tragedy of that struggle, whatever it had been, but there was no sign of relenting in his steady, somber black eyes.

"I've just told Nydia goodbye," Billy whispered huskily, when he joined her in the reception hall. "I—I'd like to talk with you, Clay, if you have time."

"Of course," he answered, the sternness of his face softening to pity for her. "Let's go into the drawing room. Lord, but it looks vast! No wonder you don't want to leave all this. Well, the race narrows down to two. How are you getting along? Just as a sporting proposition, what odds could I get on you to win?"

"Don't Clay!" Billy protested in a strangled voice. "The year is almost over and I'll be glad, glad—as Nydia said, 'It's been a nightmare of a year.' But—" she shivered—"I don't know what's to become of me when it really is over. Just three weeks more, and then—back to clerking for little Billy. How is mother?" she asked abruptly. "I haven't seen her for two weeks. Does she hate me for neglecting her? I've lost mother, too."

"Mothers aren't so easy to lose, I imagine," Clay answered lazily, his eyes closed in enjoyment of the hugeness of comfort of the chair. "Now that you've had your big year, aren't you about ready to fiddle for the public?"

"No," Billy confessed, hurt beyond words at his casualness. "I—I've wasted the year, Clay. I'm just plain —no good. Navratil lost patience with me months ago. Oh, he's still giving me lessons, and I've learned a good deal, I daresay, but—I'm not a great genius, Clay."

"You have no right to say that," Clay interrupted her sternly. "You have the genius all right, but you've buried it under the angel feathers of luxury. I found out that I couldn't have chairs like this—He struck the arm of the chair a blow which only denied the softness of it—and all that goes with chairs like this, and amount to anything as a composer. I tried to warn you."

"I know," she whispered, tears beginning to slip down her cheeks. She had been standing. Suddenly she stopped and lifted her feet from the hassock and sank into a little heap of misery upon it, laying her head on his knees. "You've been—splendidly, Clay. And I tried to ruin you. I'll never forget that I tried to make you give it all up, come back—for my sake."

"Don't cry like that, kiddlet," he begged huskily. "I guess I've been too hard on you. I might have helped you to enjoy your year and to keep from hurting this—but this hellish temper of mine got the best of me."

"I'm trapped, Clay!" she sobbed more vehemently because of his sympathy. "I'm spoiled for the other life and now my year here is nearly up. I haven't been happy here but it's ruined me for the old life of penny-pinching poverty. What shall I do, Clay?"

"I'm afraid I don't know," Clay said slowly, his hand settling heavily on her head. "Unless—"

"Unless what?" She raised her head and started at him.

"I'm going to be disgustingly prosperous," he told her, his mouth twitching with a smile of very humor. "Next year my royalties on a few silly songs will be sufficient to let me retire for a year, just to write good music. 'The Song of You' is almost finished. In fact, I'm taking it to New York next week for a tryout with the Philharmonic Orchestra. The conductor has agreed to play it."

"I'm awfully glad, Clay," She spoke in a small voice, hope dying within her. "Really awfully glad. You've earned success, if anyone ever did."

"I shall probably live in New York," he went on, his voice casual and careful again. "Great place, New York—great place to study—the violin—"

"Oh!" She dropped her head upon his knees again, and began to tremble. "I was—just wondering," Clay's carefully controlled voice went on, breaking just a little, "if you've rested up enough after a year of angle feathers to get down to real hard work—in New York—"

"Oh!" she cried again, tears pushing out of her eyes and soaking through the thick tweed cloth that covered his knees.

"Oh!" can mean so much—or so little," Clay laughed shakily. "Just what does it mean, dear? Does it—" by any chance—mean that—you want me to put it into plainer words?"

She waited a breathless moment.

On the land lap (St. Louis to New York) of his hop to Paris, Col. Lindbergh used Stanolind Aviation Gasoline manufactured by the

(Indiana)

This company appreciates Col. Lindbergh's recognition of its product. From the beginning this company has shown in substantial ways its faith in commercial aviation. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) was a pioneer in developing gasoline and oil for aviation use. Today it furnishes a major part of the supply for airplanes in this country.

Red Crown Ethyl is on the land what Stanolind Aviation Gasoline is in the air. Motorists throughout the Middle West have discovered that Red Crown Ethyl gives amazing performance. It uses carbon—turning it into power. It knocks out that knock. It costs a trifle more but it's worth more than it costs. Everywhere and everywhere the same.

INVITE LINDBERGH TO CONVENTION OF AMERICAN LEGION

Personal Representative of Famous Flyer Says Latter
May Attend

Marinette—(P)—While H. V. Hickey, general chairman of the state convention of the American Legion, to be held here in August, was unable to talk to Col. Charles Lindbergh personally, he obtained information while participating in the Washington welcome of the Atlantic-flying ace tending to indicate that Lindbergh may attend the convention.

Upon his return here Mr. Hickey, who was appointed acting commander of the Legion department of Wisconsin, for the welcoming ceremony, declared that he had talked with R. R. Dwyer, personal representative of the flyer. The latter, while not being in a position to make a definite promise of convention attendance for Lindbergh, stated that the trip to Wisconsin was contemplated and that it would be quite possible for him to accept the Legion invitation.

Mr. Hickey then wrote the flyer's representative:

"Referring to our conversation just ended, which you had extended to Col. Lindbergh the invitation of the American Legion, Department of Wisconsin, to attend their State Convention at Marinette, Wisconsin, sometime during the three days, August 18-19 and 20.

"Anything humanly possible will be done to make this invitation possible of acceptance to the Colonel. We will be ready to have a delegation meet you at any time or at any place to arrange for the details if it appears possible that our invitation may be accepted.

"There will be a tremendous gathering of World War veterans at this convention. We believe the American Legion is heart and soul behind aviation, and feel certain that Colonel Lindbergh's attendance at our convention will accomplish a great deal toward uniting the great people of Wisconsin back of an active program in support of the Colonel's desire for flying progress.

"With this invitation, I extend for the Legion of Wisconsin hearty congratulations for Colonel Lindbergh's wonderful achievement. I also wish personally to thank you for your courtesy of an interview."

ORDINANCE WOULD KEEP DOGS TIED IN SUMMER

The proposed ordinance prohibiting dogs from runnings at large during certain times of the year, introduced at the first council meeting this month, Wednesday night again was referred to the ordinance committee and ordered published. It had been referred to this committee at the previous meeting but without instructions to publish, and was returned to the council without recommendation. If adopted, it will be unlawful to permit dogs to run at large in the city between May 1 and Sept. 1, inclusive. A dog will not be considered running at large if accompanied by the owner or some member of the owner's family.

Violation of the ordinance would make the owner liable to a fine of not less than $1 and not more than $5.

COUNCIL ADOPTS RULE ON RECONSIDERATION

A new rule, number 11, introduced by Alderman C. D. Thompson, was adopted Wednesday night by the common council. It has to do with the reconsideration of actions, and reads as follows:

"No motion to reconsider shall be made except by a member who voted on the prevailing side, and such motion to reconsider shall be made at the same or next succeeding regular meeting of the common council."

GETTLE IS SPEAKER AT ACCOUNTANTS' MEETING

Accountants of the Wisconsin Utilities association will meet in Green Bay Friday for the annual convention of this section. Appleton probably will have no delegates at the meetings, it was stated at the Wisconsin Traction Light Heat and Power Co. J. E. Gettle, chairman of the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin will give an address "Valuation as Affected by Recent Court Decisions."

J. H. McGillan, mayor of Green Bay, will talk on Public Relations between the Public Utility and the Community.

MORE THAN 30 CLASS "A" PERMITS SOUGHT

One application for a class "A" permit, authorizing operation of a soft drink parlor, Wednesday night was granted by the common council to J. H. Rechner. More than 30 applications for such permits were received in the last two weeks, were referred to the police and license committee with instructions to report its recommendations at the next council meeting.

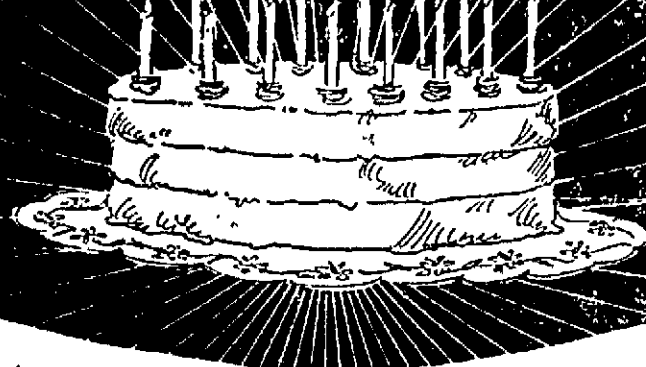

Although the permits expire June 25, a special council meeting will not be called. Action on the applications will be taken at the next regular meeting on Wednesday, July 5.

FIRE ENGINE HOUSE TO HAVE NEW DOORS

The common council Wednesday night authorized J. L. Williams, city clerk, to advertise for bids for constructing new doors on the south side of the engine house at the corner of N. Oneida and Washington streets. The bids, which must be accompanied by a certified check of $100, will be received at the city clerk's office up to noon on Tuesday, July 5. Two wide doors will be built on the side of the building facing Washington street, according to the plans. The fire engines will have more room to turn when entering or leaving the building on this side, and will be using a street less frequently traveled than N. Oneida-st., it is pointed out.

TEACH LAW MAKERS HIGHWAY FACTS TO AID CAR TAXATION

Trend Is Toward Making Gas Tax Major Source of Income, Says Professor

Philadelphia, Pa.—(AP)—The present state of motor vehicle taxation and the lack of definite state policies for raising highway building funds may be bettered if law makers can be shown the fundamental facts in regard to the use of highways, Prof. R. H. Tumbower, University of Wisconsin economist, told the American Automobile association at its convention meeting Thursday.

Prof. Tumbower asserted that "to-day the conduct and administration of our highway system constitutes the country's greatest single experiment in public ownership and operation." He analyzed the various methods adopted by the states to raise part of the funds for highway building by motor license fees and gasoline taxes, and showed the great diversity of taxation systems.

Prof. Tumbower's analysis showed that the trend is steadily toward making the gasoline tax the major source of highway funds.

"In 1926," said the economist, "the motor vehicle revenues of the country amounted to $108,102,568. Of this sum, 56 per cent was derived from license fees, and 44 per cent from gasoline taxes. Although more than half of the total revenues is derived from license fees, the percentage amount received from gasoline taxes has been steadily increasing. At the close of 1926 all the states except four—Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, and Illinois—were collecting a gasoline tax. In 1926, 17 states collected a larger amount of money from the gasoline tax than from the motor vehicle license fees."

"The states have not yet worked out any uniform policy as to the relationship which each one of these methods of raising funds from the motor vehicle is to bear to the other. A good deal of haphazard legislation has been enacted along these lines. Great variations of the gasoline tax are noticed."

"The owner of a 5-passenger car weighing 3,000 pounds costing $1,075 new, and consuming annually 400 gallons of gasoline will in a year pay total license fee and gasoline tax ranging from $8 in Illinois to $52 in Oregon. The average for the country is $24.42. The cost in Wisconsin would be $24."

OCEAN FLIGHT DIDN'T STIMULATE READING

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's flight over the Atlantic ocean has not been an observed stimulus to reading on aviation, according to desk reports at the Appleton public library. Small boys have shown an intense interest, but this is usual and was not noticeably greater after the flight.

Books and magazines on aviation in the adult section have not been sought any more than usual. Aviation stories are of great popularity at the library juvenile section, and it more were available they would be purchased. Young boys are interested in the mechanics of airplanes, particularly model planes to be copied for toy machines.

Driggs and Rickenbacker are among the popular writers of stories for children on aviation.

COURT REFUSES DIVORCE ON WOMAN'S COMPLAINT

Elsie Theede was denied a decree of divorce from Ernest Theede by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Thursday morning.

The woman declared her husband has a jealous disposition and threatened to do her bodily harm. She asked the custody of their two children and suitable alimony.

The husband in his answer denied the allegations of the plaintiff and charged her with infidelity.

Judge Berg in denying the woman's petition declared he could not conscientiously grant the decree on the evidence submitted.

HISTORIC PAGEANT IN MANITOWOC ON JULY 4

Manitowoc—(AP)—Memories of the early months of 1837 when wilderness lands here sold "dirt cheap" will be revived on July 4 when Manitowoc celebrates its nineteenth anniversary with a two day homecoming and historic pageant.

Old trails uncharted by the American Legion which is sponsoring the undertaking would indicate that the first white men to visit the county were Marquette and Joliet who appeared to have landed a few miles north of here on their journey north along the lake shore of Green Bay.

The first actual settlement here began with the erection of a saw mill in 1837, closed a few months later by the panic of 1837, which practically suspended all business in eastern Wisconsin.

Aviation events and fast motor boat races during the celebration will be in marked contrast to the 40 Oneida Indians in war paint and feathers who will open the drama of the county's history.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Purdy and Hampton and Bruce Purdy are visiting in Atlantic City.

The Pointers Of The Opportunity Herd

In the West, a ranchman guide who rides at the head of a straggling herd of cattle on the march is known as a "pointer."

The only herds you are likely to see marching through Appleton are the herds of opportunities which daily pass through the A-B-C Classified Section of the Post-Crescent.

And these herds have their pointers! Notice the numerals at the head of each classification and sub-classification. These numerals are the pointers of the opportunity herds—and combined with the convenient system of alphabetical listing of each individual offer, they make it the easiest thing in the world to find what you want.

Now is a good time to prepare "to rope in" a few of these opportunities for yourself!
